ABOUT

Rayka Black began as a single letter: a capital R cut by hand from black paper, scanned and traced. Every other character was drawn to match that one letter, the same lumps, the same closed counters, the same fuzzy cut edge and forward lean, then vectorised and assembled into a font.

It is a display face. The counters are notches rather than holes, so it wants size. Use it for titles, posters, packaging and signage, from about 24 pt up.
